Hitler's Minister Tells Cardinals New Pope Has Big Role

Ambassador to Holy See Calls With Germany's Formal Condolences Today; Predicts New World Ahead

On Ruins of Past

Pays Tribute to Pius XI, Says We're Now in One of Most Decisive Hours

Vatican City, Feb. 16 (AP)—Reichsfuehrer Hitler's ambassador to the Holy See informed the College of Cardinals today that the new pope they were to choose would play an important role in the development of a new world.

The ambassador, Diego Von Bergen, spoke when he led the diplomatic corps, of which he is dean, to call upon the cardinals for formal presentation of condolences on the death of Pope Pius XI.

He expressed the hope that the new world he mentioned would be built peacefully "on the ruins of the past."

He reminded the cardinals of their responsibility in naming a pontiff who would guide humanity through "tempestuous and fearful anxiety."

After paying tribute to the late pope's virtues, Von Bergen said: "We are living and acting in one of the most decisive hours in history."

"We are present at the development of a new world which is to be erected on the ruins of the past, which in many respects no longer has a reason for existence. We hope the new world will be peaceful."

Foreign circles noted a similarity between the ambassador's reference to a "new world" and the "new Europe" which Hitler and Premier Mussolini of Italy repeatedly have asserted must be created.

"And the papacy," Von Bergen continued, "undoubtedly has an essential role."

"On the sacred college, as we are very well aware, most eminent princes, a most delicate responsibility rests in the election of a worthy successor to Pius XI as a pontiff toward whom humanity may turn with a genuine and searching faith which shields it from the temptations and fearful anxiety toward the common goal of peace and progress."

Cardinal Pignatelli Di Belmonte, head of the college, replied to his address.

The cardinals rose and doffed red skull caps as the diplomats entered, with Von Bergen followed in order of seniority by Italy, Colombia, Belgium, Spain and Germany, along with several ministers and charge d'affaires.

There were 40 cardinals at the congregation today, the largest number since the death of Pius XI last Friday. Cardinal Marchetti Selvaggiani's injured foot was impeded and it was believed he would be able to attend the conclave to name a new pope.

The sound of hammer and saw sang in the papal palace today as workmen hurried their preparation of the cells, assembly hall and kitchen which will be the locked domain of cardinals during the conclave to elect a new pope.

Engineer Camillo Rebecchini's men had at most 15 days to make ready the "City Within a City." The conclave is to start not later than March 1, but it might start a day sooner, since the last of the cardinals expected likely will arrive then.

The fifth of nine funeral Masses for the late pontiff, Pius XI, was sung this morning in St. Peter's. United States Ambassador William Phillips attended the services accompanied by Edward L. Reed, counselor of the embassy, Samuel Reber, second secretary, and consul-general Graham H. Kemper.

Phillips also is expected to attend Mass tomorrow at the Church of Sant'Andrea Della Valle when Premier Mussolini, the Italian royal family and government officials will take part in observing Italy's day of mourning for Pope Pius.

Believed Dead, Revived

Believed dead from bronchial pneumonia 14-year-old Edward Danner (shown with his mother, Mrs. Howard Danner), was rushed by police 32 miles from his home in Woodstown, N. J., to a physician's home in Audubon, N. J. Dr. Ralph Davis revived him by flexing the chest muscles for almost an hour to arouse the infant from a "pneumonia coma."

New Bill Seeks To Remove State Ban on Gambling

Removal of Barrier Would Pave Way for Legalized Pari-Mutuel Betting at Race Tracks

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 16 (AP)—Efforts toward legalization of pari-mutuel betting on New York's horse race tracks continued today with introduction in the Legislature of another proposal to free it of the constitutional ban on gambling.

Introduced by Republican Assemblyman J. D. Bennett, Nassau Republican, the proposal, like all preceding for amendment of the constitution, would require approval of two Legislatures—before being submitted to the people.

Democratic Senator, John J. Dannigan, who sponsored a proposed constitutional amendment to legalize pari-mutuels which was approved by the 1938 Legislature, has given no indication if or when he would reintroduce the measure. The current Legislature could give it the necessary second approval.

The Bennett and Moran proposals, if passed by both houses this year, would have to be approved again in 1941 before going to the people for a vote.

Other bills introduced would provide for compulsory inspection of motor vehicles, at joint expense of state and county (Assemblyman Harold B. Sprinch, Erie Republican).

Prohibit public hospitals from refusing to admit patients willing to pay, or denying physicians right to practice in such institutions (Assemblyman Aaron F. Goldstein, Kings Democrat).

Prohibit work and home relief payments to persons who have not lived in the state at least two years (Assemblyman George F. Toner, Queens Democrat).

Authorize establishment of five-member board of physicians to recommend examining physicians for workmen's compensation claims and to license medical bureaus (Assemblyman Malcolm Wilson, Westchester Republican).

No Appointment Due

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)—White House officials said today President Roosevelt would delay appointment of a successor to Assistant Justice Louis Brandeis of the Supreme Court until he returned March 4 from his southern cruise.

Chichester Woodworkers May Get Three Months' Work

Tradesmen at the William Schwarzwald and Company plant at Chichester may be sent back to work in the plant for a temporary period of not to exceed three months in the event a United States District Court order is signed in accordance with the recommendations of Special Master Peter J. Olney, Jr., following a hearing in New York yesterday.

Willis Rappleyea, Lexington, lumberman and mill operator, recently made an offer to operate the Chichester plant for a period of approximately three months in order to complete work now being done at the plant and his offer has been approved by the creditors. The special master has also approved the plan and it is expected that an order will be entered putting Mr. Rappleyea in charge for a period, the minimum of which shall extend to April 15 and for a period of not to exceed three months.

Storm Causes 13 Deaths in Eastern Section of Nation

New England 71-Mile-an-Hour Gale Abates; Flood Danger Lessens in Upper Ohio River Valley

Snow in State

Western Part of State Gets Six to Eight-Inch Snowfall; Florida Shivers

(By The Associated Press)

Arctic cold spread over the east today in the wake of freak weather conditions that claimed at least 13 lives in the eastern half of the United States.

Abating winds that had reached a 71-mile-an-hour intensity yesterday ended the threat of serious floods along sections of New England coasts, where occurred last September's disastrous hurricane.

Snow and swiftly dropping temperatures accompanied the storm as it moved eastward from the midwest, freezing rain-swept highways but lowering the flood menace in the upper Ohio valley.

Effect of rainfall in the lower valley, still unreached by the flooded Ohio's crest, remained doubtful. Lowlands along the river and its tributaries, the Tennessee and Cumberland, hoped the cold wave would check rising waters.

Red Cross Prepares
Red Cross officials, however, prepared to move many families. Ohio river waters already seven feet above flood stage at Paducah, Ky., overflowed several streets there.

Gales which struck the mid-south yesterday left two dead in Alabama. Five persons died in three auto accidents in central Pennsylvania attributed to blinding snow and slippery roads. Other accidents cost two lives in New Jersey, and two brothers drowned when a lamp was swept away at Elmira, N. Y.

Chilling cold following a 65-mile-an-hour rain squall tumbled temperatures in New York city from 62 degrees—highest ever recorded there for the date—to below freezing. Three WPA workers trapped in a flooded sewer were saved by a fireman who swam 300 feet underground to carry them ropes.

Snow in State
Snow to depths of six and eight inches covered western New York state and sent small streams brimming their banks.

New England, harrassed by rain, gales, lightning, fog and abnormal dews, expected more snow. Small boats along the coast were warned, but no loss of life was reported.

Residents along low-lying shore areas of Rhode Island and southern Massachusetts were ordered to evacuate their homes because of the pounding surf.

Lifting fog enabled eight storm-delayed liners to reach port in New York harbor.

Indiana Feud Held Cause for Killing

Argument Over Line Fence Is Said by State Police to Have Led to Fatal Battle

Bedford, Ind., Feb. 16 (AP)—An old feud between two southern Indiana hill families was blamed today for the confessed ambush killing of a 41-year-old farmer by his next-door neighbor.

Donald F. Stiver, state police superintendent, announced in Indianapolis last night that Samuel Pierce, 63, had admitted shooting, clubbing and stabbing Earl R. Roach to death Sunday in their farm neighborhood northwest of here.

Pierce, a six-foot, 185-pound man in overalls, calmly explained to newspaper men at Stiver's office: "Roach's uncle killed my brother, Bill, 40 years ago."

A searching party found Roach's battered body Tuesday. Sheriff Lincoln Dunbar arrested Pierce and his son, Ray, 27, because, he said, they had argued with Roach over placing of a line fence. The son was freed yesterday. The old farmer has three other sons and five daughters.

Stiver said the elder Pierce's fingerprints were on a club found near the corpse. He gave reporters a statement he said Pierce had signed. "I waylaid him," it read. "I just shot him and he fell to the ground, and I got me a club and knocked him in the head. ... I couldn't kill him knocking him in the head, so I had to cut his throat and bled him to death."

Senate Committee Hears Roosevelt Overrode Craig In Planes Sale to France

President to Go On Cruise

Chief Executive Will Leave Behind Balty Congress; Bouds Houston in Florida to Watch Naval Maneuvers in Caribbean Waters

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)—President Roosevelt cleared up pressing government business today so that he could spend the next two weeks on a Man-of-War in the Caribbean.

Leaving behind a balky congress, he will depart later tonight by special train for Key West, Fla., where he will board the 9,055-ton cruiser Houston Saturday to witness part of the fleet maneuvers.

The voyage was planned several weeks ago with a double purpose—to give the naval-minded president a glimpse of the great armada ever to assemble in the Atlantic for maimic battle, and an opportunity to rest from congressional problems.

His physician, Rear Admiral Ross T. McIntire, said the trip also would help the President rid himself completely of a week-old attack of grip.

World attention has been focused on the fleet maneuvers, designed to test the Atlantic defenses of the Panama Canal. A total of 140 ships, 600 planes and upward of 55,000 officers and men are taking part.

So close to actual war conditions have the proceedings been mapped that radio communication by participating ships with shore has been silenced. The presidential cruiser, however, will be assigned an exclusive radio channel to permit transaction of government business.

The mimic warfare is being staged at a time when congress is considering the administration's proposed new defense program.

Craig objected, Austin said the testimony disclosed, that if the French were permitted to purchase planes being produced for army use that this might interfere with the army's procurement of the necessary planes in time to meet requirements under the administration's new defense program.

Might Eliminate Bombers
Craig also said, Austin reported, that the French plane deal might deprive the army entirely of the Douglas light bombers.

The committee's immediate concern appeared to be to let the country know whether a representative of the French air ministry was properly aboard a new bombing plane which crashed recently on the west coast.

President Roosevelt submitted to congress for its consideration today a national resources committee report proposing policies, investigations, and legislation to carry forward a broad national program for the "prudent utilization and conservation of the nation's energy resources."

In a special message the president said national policies concerning coal, oil, gas and water power "must recognize the availability of all of them." Instead of prescribing separate policies for each.

Legislation Will Expire
"Some federal legislation affecting the energy resources will expire at the end of this fiscal year other legislation at the end of a few more years," Mr. Roosevelt said. "This report sets forth a useful frame of reference for legislative programs affecting these resources and illustrates another approach to the systematic handling of our natural resources. Specific recommendations are advanced for solution of the most pressing problems."

Deciding that a national energy resources policy can not be evolved over night, the president said the widening interests and responsibility on the part of the federal government for the conservation and wise use of these resources "raises many perplexing questions of policy determination."

"Clearly," he added, "there must be adequate and continuing planning and provision for studies which will reflect the best technical experience available, as well as full consideration for both regional and group interests."

Mr. Roosevelt said the United States uses more energy per capita than any other nation and "our scientists tell us there will be a progressively increasing demand for energy for all purposes."

"Our energy resources are not inexhaustible," he asserted, "yet we are permitting waste in their use and production. In some instances, to achieve apparent economies today future generations will be forced to carry the burden of unnecessarily high costs and to substitute inferior fuels for particular purposes."

"National policies concerning these vital resources must recognize the availability of all of them; the location of each with respects to its markets; the costs of transporting them; the technological developments which will increase the efficiency of their production and use; the use of the lower grade coals; and the relationships between the increased use of energy and the general economic development of the country."

Army Chief of Staff Objected to Possible Delay in U. S. Procurement Under Defense Program

President Sends Special Message to Congress on Conservation Legislation

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)—Members disclosed today that the senate military committee had received testimony that President Roosevelt overrode specific objections from General Malin Craig, army chief of staff, to permit a French air mission to buy 100 American-made bombing planes of the latest type.

Secretary Morgenthau told the committee, Senator Austin, (R-Vt.), said, that the president had overruled Craig's objections after a conference with Morgenthau. Craig and the secretary of the navy.

Way Smoothed for U. S. Farm Barter With Nazi Germany

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)—If John Farmer wants to make a pure barter arrangement with Germany to swap his wheat for barbed wire or a threshing machine, he now finds the way smoothed for him.

All he has to do is to communicate with the nearest German consul, and in due time his wheat will probably turn into the threshing machine.

Farmer cooperatives in the midwest are reported negotiating actively with the German government, through representatives here, for the barter of land and wheat for farm machinery and implements, barbed wire and poultry netting.

Suit Against Scarsdale

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 16 (AP)—A suit brought by the state of New York against the village of Scarsdale and its former Police Justice Charles M. Carter, for recovery of $5,791.50, was being tried here today. The suit is being heard by Supreme Court Justice Francis M. Bergan and a jury, the state claiming the money represents fines, forfeitures and penalties assessed against motorists and collected from 1924 to 1930 inclusive. The state contends the money, which was paid over to the village, should have been turned over to the state treasury.

Storm Causes 13 Deaths in East

One death from exposure was reported in Arkansas and another in Mississippi, where the Red Cross was caring for refugees in three communities—Marks,

Sledge and Darling. Crowder, a town of about 500, was surrounded by water and residents could reach the outside world only by telephone and boat. The village itself was dry. A number of rural schools were closed. A 24-mile-an-hour wind dropped the temperature at Jacksonville from 77 to 59 degrees in an hour.

WRECKED BY WINDSTORM

A brief but destructive wind blew down this factory building burying six workmen in the wreckage at Hagerstown, Md. None was injured. The wind blew down one wall of another factory and unroofed barns. Gale-force winds struck other parts of the mid-South and New England coast as freak weather was prevalent all over the nation.

Smith Gets 10 Days Richard Smith, 25, of 12 Hudson street, was sentenced to 10 days in the county jail on Wednesday afternoon when he pleaded guilty in police court to the theft of a double-barreled shotgun.

Smith was arrested that day on a warrant sworn out by Frank Albertini, who charged Smith with taking the gun from the store-room in the Orpheum Theatre. Smith, according to the police, after taking the gun pawned it, and it was later recovered and turned over to Albertini.

THE GREATNESS OF PIUS XI

The outpouring of admiration for Pius XI has been in itself a remarkable thing. Appreciation of his character and work has been spontaneous and universal. The world seemed to rise up all at once and declare that here was a good and a great man.

He was great in his fearless championing of human rights, at a time when dictators were treading such rights underfoot. Walter Lippmann says that this Pope, observing the great disorder of his time, perceived the root of the disorder and defined the issue, and thus made a brave beginning of saving our civilization.

This civilization is based on the idea, explains Lippmann, that man is not a thing, but an inviolable soul, and can never surrender altogether to brute force. Pius XI declared, in the face of brutal dictatorships, the dignity of man and the rights of the human spirit.

"Thus he made plain to the discerning what will eventually become clear to almost all—that the essential issue is not between Fascism and Communism, not between authoritarianism and democracy, not between liberty and order, not between license and discipline, but between the faith which affirms and the heresies which deny that men are inviolable, responsible, rational and free."
"Because he defined the real issues at the center of the whole immense disorder, Pope Pius XI exercised a spiritual influence beyond that of any pope in modern times."

TWO-WAY TRADE NEEDED

"Can it be," asks a business writer, "that many Americans still think we can always ship out more goods than we bring in?"

The answer seems to be yes. We all want more trade, by which it often appears we mean more sales only, not more purchases. It doesn't seem to matter that such a one-sided exchange of goods slowly reduces exports and so makes the situation worse.

Some states even apply the same policy to their trade with each other. Both Ohio and West Virginia have before their legislatures bills damaging to interstate trade. The Ohio bill would require local governments and institutions to buy only Ohio coal. The West Virginia bill would require their own local governments and institutions to buy nothing from states which discriminate against any West Virginia products.

If we carried this thing on indefinitely we should have cities refusing to buy goods made in other cities and perhaps private citizens refusing to buy anything not made in their own neighborhoods. By that time, of course, our industries and transportation systems would have vanished and taken along with them most of the things we need for daily living, not to mention all hope of prosperity.

WAKING UP

We Americans may not know where we're going, but we're certainly on our way. Dr. Allan A. Stockdale, speakers' bureau chief for the National Manufacturers Association, says: "After traveling all over the country, I can report a vastly different America from that of six months ago. Its citizens are awakening rapidly. The great body of silent citizens are beginning to be stirred up, and when that stirring is fully accomplished we need have no fear of the future."

"For the next few years we must develop our best sense of humor. Most of the things some of us get mad about are just funny. We've got to laugh at them."

"We can't believe the United States can go very far wrong—it is always in the hands of some group of reformers. All things considered, there is no reason for pessimism."

ANIMALS RELAX

Domesticated animals live more naturally than humans, says a professor of veterinary physiology at Cornell University. He believes they suffer less from heart disease than men because of their freedom from the "unnatural stresses and strains that man has built up for himself through his civilization."

The professor is conducting tests of his theory, but says they have not yet progressed far enough to warrant definite conclusions.

Even domesticated animals, of course, have some worries. (The pet cat chased up a tree by the neighbor's dog is doubtless terribly frightened for a while.) On the whole, however, their existence is pleasant. Food is provided for them regularly. They have their own baskets or rugs or special corners of the house for sleeping. They may come inside to escape severe storms. They are normally surrounded by human friends and admirers.

The thing that most animals, domesticated or wild, have as a great advantage over most human beings is their ability to drop their anxieties and relax completely. Their sleep may be interrupted, but they drop back into it easily when the interruption is past. Those human beings who learn to relax between tasks, to go to sleep quickly when the time for it comes, and to sleep deeply and restfully, suffer less from the stresses and strains of civilization than others.

IS THE DOLE CHEAPER?

One fact cannot be forgotten in deciding how much economy to apply to WPA. Work relief costs more in immediate cash outlay than a dole. The experience of countries that felt the depression before we did made that fact clear.

Nevertheless, the United States chose work relief because it believed that the outright dole was demoralizing to the recipients. Work relief not only feeds the people who would be cared for by the dole alone, but also creates useful assets for the general good which will remain for many years. The playgrounds, swimming pools, pavements, sewers, airport extensions, park improvements, and other work done by WPA are recognized as values added to the communities in which they are carried out. Regardless of how friendly and unfriendly criticism of "shovel-earning," many valuable jobs have been done which would never have come from a hand-out relief plan.

Is cash economy of paramount importance now? Is it better now to feed people without providing jobs for them and receiving the fruits of their labor? Most Americans do not think so.

The general conclusion seems to be that we Americans would be pretty dumb if, in international relations, we didn't cooperate with friends of democracy.

Just to think that, with this lovely row going on in the Senate, Borah is at home sick!

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

SNAKE POISON USED TO RELIEVE PAIN

From time to time you read about the great relief from pain obtained by cancer patients by the use of poison (venom) of snakes. As a matter of fact, the use of the venom from that very poisonous snake, the cobra, has been used for hundreds of years, but when a research unit such as the Pasteur Institute reports its findings, then we can rest assured that if snake venom has merit, it will be made known to the world.

Dr. D. I. Macht, in Annals of Internal Medicine, tells us that the first "scientific" use of a venom (that of the cobra) was made quite recently by the Pasteur Institute.

First, special methods of sterilizing the venom had to be developed as the venom is destroyed by high temperature. Then a study of its effects on the body showed that its power to relieve pain was caused by its action on a certain part of the brain and that it had no effect when placed upon any and all parts of the body. Its action then is like that of morphine except that it is much slower in taking effect and its effect lasts much longer than morphine.

By careful experiments the exact dose with which to begin daily treatment has been worked out and when pain has been relieved, the needed amount to keep patient free of pain requires this dosage two or three times a week instead of daily.

"The results in incurable cancer were very satisfactory; pain and discomfort being greatly relieved. Later, cobra venom was found to be very useful in other painful conditions such as angina pectoris, severe neuralgias, arthritis (rheumatism), where not only was the pain relieved, but also muscle spasm was relaxed. In a series of cases of Parkinson's disease or shaking palsy, cobra venom was found to be effective in relieving pain and relaxing nerves and muscles."

Dr. Macht states that in his experience cobra venom did not appear to be habit forming as is so often the case with morphine.

Naturally patients in severe pain and the families of these patients may be anxious to have this venom used. While it is now available to a greater extent than heretofore the patient must always be guided by the advice of the family physician as to its use in his particular case.

Consider Posting Against Hunting

Woodstock, Feb. 15.—Ever since last autumn's heavy take of deer in the Wittenberg section of Woodstock, the members of the Wittenberg Sportsman's Club have been discussing the advisability of posting against hunting, according to a statement by the secretary, William Douglas. At the club's last business meeting it was decided to post the many hundreds of acres of fine hunting lands owned and controlled by the various club members. About 29 miles of roadside will be included in the posting, making several thousand acres inaccessible to all but club members.

These lands were formerly posted by the club. Last year it was decided to experimentally open the country to all comers; and the verdict is that the results were generally unsatisfactory. Secretary Douglas reports that many former club members neglected to pay their dues, but the principal cause for complaint seems to be the large number of total strangers who appear just after the deer season ends in the Adirondacks and park along the roadsides and wander unguided over private property, shooting with but little thought to the well being or comfort of possible property owners.

It is felt that more club members means less indiscriminate hunters and more volunteer game protectors. "Of course our stand," says the secretary, "will deprive us of any possibility of procuring state game releases; but as Wittenberg is a natural game breeding ground, given a reasonable measure of protection, our native game, particularly the much sought deer, will take care of themselves. Introduced game needs a greater measure of protection than native, which, with the reduction in membership that comes with open territory, we could not give it. With the closed territory and increased membership we can well protect our native, established deer herds."

There has already been established a local flock of mallards on Yankee-town Pond, a difficult matter in the opinion of the State Biological Survey. The flock is still small and well protected, but there have been return migrants. This will mean much to this district as there are few breeding grounds left in this part of the world.

In addition to other game preserving activities the club has also kept close scrutiny on the vegetation of Yankee-town Pond to improve it and the contiguous swamps as duck feeding grounds, both for the migrants and the newly established local flock. Plantings have been made to supplement the native vegetation.

As none of the waters of Wittenberg is posted against fishing the club will continue to make releases of government fish, and if it is deemed expedient, fish from private sources, but there will probably be no effort to procure state fish, even for Yankee-town Pond. In this way there will be no interference with the activities of the neighboring fish and game clubs according to Mr. Douglas who has been largely in charge of the procurement of fish.

Loss of property by theft or burglary is an allowable deduction, and need not be incurred in trade or business. Hence, the loss occasioned by the theft of jewelry or an automobile used for pleasure and convenience is deductible. It must be established, however, that the property actually was stolen. Should circumstances attending the loss leave the owner in doubt as to whether it was stolen or lost, the claim would not be allowed.

Losses from wagering transactions are allowable only to the extent of the gains from such transactions.

A loss is deductible only in the year in which it is sustained, even though, as in the case of a theft or casualty, it may not be discovered until a later year. Losses compensated for by insurance or otherwise, of course, are not deductible. However, in the event the amount of insurance is not sufficient to recompense for the loss sustained, the excess of the loss over the amount of the insurance is deductible.

In general losses for which an amount may be deducted for income-tax purposes must be denoted by closed and completed transactions, fixed by identifiable events, bona fide and actually sustained during the taxable period for which claimed. For instance, a person possessing stock of a corporation cannot deduct from gross income any amount claimed as a loss merely on account of shrinkage in value of such stock through fluctuation of the market or otherwise. In the case of an individual the loss allowable in such cases is that actually suffered when the stock is disposed of, if any securities (that is shares of stock in a corporation) are rights to subscribe for or to such shares) become worthless during the taxable year and are capital assets, the loss resulting therefrom shall, for income-tax purposes, be considered as a loss from the sale or exchange, on the last day of such taxable year of capital assets. Losses of individuals from the sale or exchange of capital assets are allowed as follows: 100 percent if the capital asset has been held for not more than 18 months; 66 2-3 percent if held for more than 18 months but not more than 24 months; and 50 percent if held for more than 24 months.

"Brandeis Doctrine" May Occupy Important Part in Discussions of Amending Wagner Labor Relations Act
By DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1939)
Washington, Feb. 16.—The "Brandeis Doctrine"—being the philosophy unfolded by Justice Brandeis in his many years on the Supreme Court of the United States—may occupy an important part in the discussions of how the Wagner Labor Relations Act shall be amended.

Not perhaps at this session, but in years to come, as the problem of avoiding interruptions to production through labor disputes becomes more and more acute, the question of how the right to strike shall be qualified so as to require a period of cooling-off or deliberation before there is an actual stoppage of work is bound to be given more and more consideration.

And, when that time comes, it will be found that Justice Brandeis declared on behalf of a unanimous Supreme Court only 13 years ago that the right to strike was neither unlimited nor absolute. Many persons whose interest in labor disputes is occasional, and many who are directly concerned with it often overlook the most significant statement ever made by Justice Brandeis on the right to strike. It was pronounced in an opinion known as "Dorcy versus Kansas" and read in part as follows:

"The right to carry on business—be it called liberty or property—has value. To interfere with this right without just cause is unlawful. The fact that the injury was inflicted by a strike is sometimes a justification. But a strike may be illegal because of its purpose, however orderly the manner in which it is conducted. To collect a strike fund due to a fellow member of the union who was formerly employed in the business is not a permissible purpose. In the absence of a valid agreement to the contrary, each party to a disputed claim may insist that it be determined only by a court. To enforce payment by a strike is clearly coercion. The legislature may make such action punishable criminally as extortion or otherwise. And it may subject to punishment him who uses the power to influence incident to his office in a union to order the strike. Neither the common law, nor the fourteenth amendment, confers the absolute right to strike."

Applying the above principle, congress or the states could pass laws prohibiting "sit-down strikes" as being clearly unlawful. Likewise, congress could insist that a strike ordered before there is an opportunity for negotiation in a prescribed period is also unlawful. A provision to this effect occurs in the Federal Railway Labor Law, in that no strike is permitted until certain steps specified in the law have been exhausted.

But, it will be asked, can congress or the courts compel any individual to work against his will? The answer is that an individual can quit work at any time and for any cause and may be free from legal action unless he has a contract governing his individual services. But, on the other hand, any individual who quits work in response to an order from a union officer or any union officer who orders any individual to quit work in defiance of what the law may specify as an illegal strike will find himself in trouble with the courts and may face the penalties specified in the law.

The action of a union group in ordering men to withdraw from work in plain pursuit of an unlawful object can be forbidden by an act of congress or of the states. It is this authority which could be invoked if jurisdictional disputes should arouse public opinion. In Great Britain, illegal strikes are defined, and one type of strike which is banned is what is known as the "sympathetic strike," affecting the intentional ordering out of workers in an entirely unrelated industry.

Qualification or limitation of the right to strike is discussed in a general way in seeking to find remedies for interrupted production but the whole subject will become concrete when the supreme court of the United States decides the so-called Fansteel case, which it has heard, but on which it has as yet not rendered an opinion. In this the National Labor Relations Board has ordered reinstated workers who engaged in a "sit-down" strike on the ground that the men had a right to strike, and that the "sit-down" was unrelated to the original "unfair labor practice" which caused the strike in the first instance. If the supreme court makes its plan that illegal circumstances and behavior cannot protect workers who engage in the exercise of an otherwise legitimate right to strike, the demand for legislation to prohibit "sit-down" strikes will disappear. If, on the other hand, the court sustains the labor board and orders the reinstatement of the workers, the question will be on the doorstep of Congress for immediate action, and such laws as may be proposed no doubt would find their constitutional sanctions in the Brandeis doctrine quoted above, namely, that, if the "right to carry on business" has "value," then to use violence in interfering with the exercise of such a right can be declared unlawful.

Wicks Releases Statement on His Transit Measure

Senator Arthur H. Wicks of this city today released the following statement concerning his bill to protect employees in transit companies:

There has been a general misunderstanding of the purpose of the present proposed bill to protect employees engaged in the operation of Transit facilities by the several cities of the State. The election in November last, Article 12 of the State Constitution effecting the Home Rule for cities was amended by a referendum giving the cities the authority over the "ownership and operation of its transit facilities." My proposed law is an enabling act to make this provision effective and to guide the local legislative bodies of the several cities of the State in the enactment of local laws thereunder. From the statements emanating from sources apparently opposed, it has been presented that this amendment enunciated a new principle. Subdivision of Article 5 of the State Constitution provides:

"Appointments and promotions in the civil service of the State, and of all the civil divisions thereof, including cities and villages, shall be made according to merit and fitness to be ascertained, so far as practicable, by examinations, which, so far as practicable, shall be competitive."

This provision makes it mandatory that all employees of the cities and other agencies shall be employed under civil service laws. After the introduction of the original bill it appeared that there was a possibility that thousands of men long engaged in the railroad operation in the City of New York might be deprived of their jobs due to the Constitutional provision above indicated.

If no law is introduced to assure these men of their jobs, it is then obvious that the right of employment is jeopardized with resultant injury and hardship to the men and their families.

For that reason I have presented today an amendment to the so-called City Home Rule enabling act in order to insure these employees of their jobs. I am very much concerned that these employees shall be continued in employment should the City of New York effectuate unification or purchase either or both the BMT or IRT systems. These employees will have no reason to worry about maintaining their present jobs and their seniority in service on the systems for which they are working if this bill becomes effective. There are only two provisions in the proposed amendments for which we must stand for the protection of the American workmen who are engaged in the railroad operation.

The employees must be citizens of the United States.

They must be of good character. He cannot be taken into the civil service if he has been found guilty of a felony. I feel that the 60,000 or more employees in the Rapid Transit systems of New York city and the employees of transit systems throughout the state which may hereafter become municipally owned and operated are entitled to be assured that they will be protected in their jobs by this proposed amendment.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

—By Robbin Coons—

"Gunga Din." Screen play by Joel Sayre and Fred Guiot, from story by Ben Hur and Charles MacArthur, suggested by Rudyard Kipling poem. Directed by George Stevens. Cast: Cary Grant, Victor McLaglen, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Sam Jaffe, Eduardo Ciannelli, Joan Fontaine, Montagu Love.

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — Sometimes Hollywood forgets its original function, which was to make movies. Every year it turns 'em out by the hundreds, but all too often its "movies" are talkies. Here is a burlesque exception. "Gunga Din" is a talkie and it isn't ashamed of it. It moves! It races! It MOVES!

You won't have trouble following the story. It's a combination of "The Three Musketeers" and "Beau Geste" and "Drums" and "What Price Glory" and "The Perils of Pauline" and all the other slap-dash thrillers you've seen these many years. But unless you're too doped sophisticated for your own good you'll glory in it—and why shouldn't you? Sneer if you will, the old hoke is still our best entertainment.

And "Gunga Din" is that old hoke dressed to kill. If you fans who keep Hollywood's wheels oiled with golden lava don't go for this, you've changed—and disastrously for Hollywood.

THREE gay troopers of Her Majesty's army in India are the protagonists in Rule—Briannia's war upon the murderous religious cult of Thuggee.

Gunga Din (Jaffe) is the humble native water-carrier with ambitions to be a soldier. Trooper Grant's craving is for gold. When loyal Din brings tales of a mountain temple with a golden dome the two set off—and find the seal and fortress of the Thugs. Surrendering himself to be tortured, Grant sends the water-carrier back for help. McLaglen and Fairbanks come alone, are themselves captured. But they maneuver the Thug leader (Ciannelli) into the unhappy status of prisoner of the imprisoned. The British come, marching blindly into the Thug trap, while from the temple tower the prisoners look on helpless. When Ciannelli escapes and sacrifices himself in the snake pit (oh, yes, there's a lovely snake pit!) things look blackest for our heroes. But in the battle the wounded Din gets out his trusty bugle and—

"Gunga Din" has everything—good acting, comedy, expert direction, even a bit of romance featuring the appealing Fontaine.

This is NO way to ask for a raise. Bashful Clerk (trying to get up courage enough to ask for a raise) —Why-er, the fact is that my wife and I find it very hard for two people to live on my salary. The boss—Yeah? Well, just what do you expect me to do, grant you a divorce?

Then under the trees
She folds her front knees
And sinks for and aft with a

NEW YORK—Short short story in quotes: "Ethel Waters, blues singer, has been signed for the role of Hagar in Guthrie McClintic's forthcoming production of 'Man-ba's Daughters,' a dramatization of Dubose Heyward's novel of Negro life along the Charleston, S. C. waterfront. Miss Waters' previous experience has been confined to revues, nightclubs, and concert halls. She has never appeared in a straight drama on the legitimate stage."

"I'm no actress. I don't know how to act. I get choked and dizzy and I don't know what's going on when I get up there. . . . I wanted to start from the beginning. I wanted to work my way up. I wanted to try a straight play. Does it sound crazy to come right out and say I prayed? Does it sound crazy? . . . Listen, mister, I won't feel no offense if you put down I'm a little screwy." Ethel Waters, in an interview.

"Ethel Waters put aside her famous nightclub and revue capers last evening to tread the old boards of the Empire theater in her debut as a dramatic actress, an eventful occasion which turned at the final curtain into an ovation for the star. To that general uproar I would like to add these ink-stained salutes for a performance of such warmth, and power, and simplicity that it ultimately swept along with it a very reluctant and sprawling tragedy."—John Anderson, critic.

"Last night was Ethel Waters' triumph. The Ethel Waters who has enriched many a musical comedy and revue with her eloquent singing of Negro songs, who gave a concert not long ago at Carnegie Hall, came to the old Empire theater as a dramatic actress in 'Man-ba's Daughters,' and established herself as one of the finest of actresses, white or black."—Arthur Pollock, critic.

"Again and again she seems in her own person to be writing Hagar for the Heywards' play. Even when the text is no more than a scenario for a silent movie, she manages to turn it into a talkie. Her very pantomime can be so eloquent that it seems wired for sound."—John Mason Brown, critic.

Note: If Miss Waters is really on the level about not being able to act, she ought to drop all those critics a note and put them wise. After all, even critics appreciate a tip now and then.

First Post Office Was

Located in Boston in 1641

The first postal establishment on the North American continent was located in Boston in 1641 in the tavern of Richard Fairbanks who was given authority to charge one penny for each letter delivered. Professor R. Del French of McGill university told members of the Rotary club of Montreal, says the Christian Science Monitor. In Canada, the first record of postal service was during the French regime when a road was opened between Quebec and Montreal in 1735.

Private dispatches by mail in Canada were delivered on schedule only after the fall of Quebec into British hands. This marked the final real attempt to organize a postal service on a regular basis, and Benjamin Franklin was instrumental in developing this work between Montreal and New York by way of the Champlain and Hudson route. Postal service was instituted between Halifax and Liverpool in 1755.

Florence Nightingale Pledge

The wording of the Florence Nightingale pledge follows: "I solemnly pledge myself before God and in the presence of this assembly, to pass my life in purity, and to practice my profession faithfully. I will abstain from whatever is deleterious and mischievous, and will not take or knowingly administer any harmful drugs. I will do all in my power to elevate the standard of my profession, and I will hold in confidence all personal matters committed to my keeping, and all family affairs coming to my knowledge in the practice of my calling. With loyalty I will endeavor to aid the physician in his work and devote myself to the welfare of those committed to my care."

A Stereotype

A stereotype (Greek stereos, "solid, firm," and typos, "impression, mold") is a plate or cast made by taking an impression from plaster or wood pulp (which has received the impression from the type), and reproducing it in metal—perhaps a cylindrical plate for a press. From this stereotyped plate, thousands of copies may be printed.

We sometimes speak of phrases, ideas, manners, or actions as stereotyped, when they are molded according to some fixed plan, or are presented over and over again in an unvarying style. Stereotyped ideas stay in ruts.—Christian Science Monitor.

DO YOU NEED BUILDING UP?

MANY folks are weak, feel tired, lousy and dull. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a dependable tonic which will increase the appetite and increase the flow of gastric juice—thus assisting digestion. Dr. John C. Pierce, 1715 Pierce Ave., Niagara Falls, N. Y., said: "Both my husband and I have derived benefit from Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is wonderful as a tonic and is an excellent aid to the digestive system. When we are in need of a medicine to relieve upset stomach, like gas on the stomach or acid indigestion, Golden Medical Discovery is our standby." Buy of your druggist. New size, 50c. WITH A CRASH AS ITS DESTINY, the army's new secret twin-motor pursuit plane poised thus at March field, Calif., before it shot across country in 7 hours, 36 seconds of flying time—only to crack up at Mitchell field, N. Y. Construction of similar ships seems possible. A Lockheed XP-38, it's called the "world's fastest pursuit ship." Capable of 350 miles an hour, it has stratosphere operating equipment, tricycle undercarriage, is designed to carry machine guns. Pilot Ben Kelsey, who made flight, was injured slightly.

Slides Are Shown To Picture Group

A most interesting and educational program was featured Tuesday evening at the regular meeting of the Ulster County Photographic Society at the Y. M. C. A. In addition to the usual reciprocal criticism of members' prints, Walter T. Weaver of Highland presented an elaborate series of lantern slides. Most of them were his and all of them were beautifully hand colored by him.

They included many natural colored reproductions of wild flowers and animals photographed in the vicinity of Kingston and in the Catskills. There were also several Civil War scenes, one of them, the Battle of Antietam, an unusual photograph showing the opposing armies firing at one another a few hundred feet apart.

Following Mr. Weaver's series, Henry C. Hartman read a lecture on "Pictorial Photography" illustrated with 60 slides, all of them beautiful reproductions of famous salon prints.

Williams Slightly Hurt

John A. Williams of 94 Abraya street sustained an injured finger and the Chevrolet delivery truck he was driving was damaged when it was in collision with the automobile driven by Miss Jean Lorentz of 274 North Manor avenue, an investigator in the city welfare department. Mr. Williams was making a left hand turn on East Chester street into the driveway of the Henry Schulse grocery store when the two machines collided. Both cars were damaged. Miss Lorentz reported no injuries.

64,156,895 Attend Nation's Churches

Membership Rose Twice as Fast as Population.

NEW YORK.—The total membership of churches in the United States is 64,156,895, according to Information Service, official weekly publication of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. Of these 52,978,579 are more than 12 years old. The total number of churches in this country is 248,410. There are 200 different religious bodies.

These and other church totals were assembled by Rev. Dr. Herman C. Weber, editor of the Year Book of American Churches, who is considered an outstanding authority in the United States on religious statistics.

"Dr. Weber has been working for a number of years with the Association of Statisticians of American Religious Bodies to improve the statistics of religion," said a statement issued at the headquarters of the council, 297 Fourth avenue. "Every effort has been made under his direction to insure accuracy and comparability and the figures represent the most adequate and reliable material now available."

Dr. Weber's figures show that the membership of the churches in the United States increased twice as fast as the population in 1937. The increase in church membership was about 960,000. The number of churches in 1937 increased 1,743.

"Significant of the trend toward church unity is the fact that 97.3 per cent of the total membership is in the 50 larger bodies—all with membership of 50,000 or over," the statement announced. "The small bodies, approximately 160, account for only 2.7 per cent of this great church population. Moreover, the former total of 212 bodies has been reduced by mergers and disappearances to 200."

"The membership 13 years of age and over increased by 963,396 during the period covered."

Prenatal Clinic

The pre-natal clinic will be held at the Benedictine Hospital on Friday afternoon from 1 to 2 p.m. Expectant mothers who attend this clinic will receive medical attention and advice.

REPORTS LOSS OF GEMS

Mrs. Antonina Marko (above) of New York reported to Miami Beach, Fla., police she lost $75,000 in jewels and cash when bandits rifled hotel safe deposit boxes there. She said she had other gems worth $40,000 in her room.

The elephant has a thick hide, but his trunk is so sensitive that he never forgets if he pushes it against a stinging nettle plant. Rubber planters in Johore, British Malaya, are therefore planting hedges of stinging nettles around their estates, where elephants have done much damage by uprooting young trees and tearing down ordinary fences. It is hoped that when a wandering elephant touches a stinging nettle with his trunk he will dash away and not return. One difficulty is that the sting of the nettle tree is so virulent that it is hard to plant.

Eyesight Needs Vitamin A
One of the first and most characteristic symptoms of a deficiency of vitamin A is what is known as nyctalopia or night-blindness. This inability to see clearly in a poor light, or quickly to recover clarity of vision after being temporarily blinded by a dazzling glare like that of headlights of an automobile, is asserted to be largely responsible for the rapidly mounting toll of night motorcar accidents.—Industrial and Engineering Chemistry.

Breton and Cornwall Alike
The charm of France's Breton coast makes a strong appeal to Englishmen, for its gray granite rocks bear a striking resemblance to the wildest parts of the Cornish and Welsh coasts, a likeness that is further strengthened by the rocky reefs with which the coast is strewn and the innumerable bays and creeks with which it is indented. St. Malo is an excellent center for the full exploration of this area.

DANGEROUS SERVICE

By GRACE ELLIOTT TAYLOR

The Characters
 Peter Mallone: Adventure newspaper correspondent.
 Petronella: His young sister.
 Tony Lane: British agent, the man Petrol loves.

Yesterday: Petrol meets Tony in Cairo. He is surprised to learn she is famous.

Chapter 26

'I Love You'

TONY's regard traveled from her short, attractive hair, over her figure, which was slight and tense in her neat suit, down to pretty ankles, and smart American traveling shoes.

"You're attractive, but still alone. I wonder why?" She would not answer.

"To make it easier, let me tell you something, Petrol. I love you. I always have. You were a child when I knew it first." She raised her eyes. She was amazed. He had confessed it so simply. It was like hearing an echo of her own imagination. This was what she had known would happen.

She dared not be glad. It could not be as simple as it sounded. Tony went on. I thought then, as I still do, that the most unfortunate thing that could happen to you would be to love me in return. I do not believe women, as a whole, love long, or deeply. I told myself you would meet someone else; be happier than I could have made you. You see I couldn't offer you any garden, then, with a promise to help you plant it, any more than I can today, Petrol. It is only the change in you—a mistake, mind you, that makes me tell you now. And the fact that you haven't met anyone else. That wasn't the only reason I cleared out as I did, of course. I'm selfish. I wanted my freedom. I did not want a home, or to be tied to a wife. Can you understand? Can you see what a jam you've put me into now? You still belong, by rights, to that English garden. But something has happened to you. I'm not sure you would be content there, for long."

Outside the hotel, there was a great deal of noise. They heard the distant staccato of firing. "I wonder, too, Martin Rowdon warned me. He said, 'Europe gets you.' Perhaps he was right." She shrugged. "I'm glad you explained, Tony; and that you told me. Will you say it again. I didn't believe you the first time."

Her lips were tremulous as she asked it.

"I love you," he caught her hands tightly. "We must be mad," she said, looking into his eyes. "I've met you four times in five years." "I love you," he repeated. "It doesn't necessarily mean there is anything to be done about it, but I want you to know."

She laughed. "That was very you!"

"Well, how do you feel? It is inconvenient, isn't it? You admit that?" Her answer was perplexed, as well as truthful. "All this time, for years, Tony, I've believed I loved you; I invented just the reasons you've told me, for your staying away. They didn't seem sufficient—good reasons. But now—" She was thinking of Cairo, rioting under the hot sun. Did she feel the need of him strongly enough to face spending her life in cities like this—wherever there was trouble?"

"You haven't answered the question."

"Now that you are sitting here with me—I don't know," she told him helplessly. She sought desperately for words. "I feel numb, dead. Do you think we can possibly just have imagined it, Tony? Or are we really in mind and spirit, tied in some odd way? Do you think perhaps we were meant to be brother and sister? Is there any physical attraction?"

Musical Comedy Stuff

HE smiled. "There must be. We have three, or perhaps four days to find out. I'm waiting for orders. A great deal depends on them. I may be sent almost anywhere. Then, you'd have to feel pretty sure, to follow. But, just possibly, I may go to England. Then I shall ask you to come home, too. It will give you a chance to discover what you really feel. But, of course, if I am frank, there is no doubt in my mind at all. I tell you you will love me, some day, however inconvenient I am. But, of course, given only three days," he shrugged, "even perhaps even that will be long enough for me to convince you."

Petronella sat upright, her clear laughing eyes accused him. "Tony, you're a beast! You've been cocksure of me all the time. Sure I'd wait, sure I'd change my personality to suit you, sure I'd come when you whistled. Even now, I don't trust you not to be gone again, without me, if those orders oh, I'm angry, and rebellious, and mad—and angry!" she finished helplessly.

He laid a hand over hers. "I know. What you don't realize yet, is that I'm on the same string. You have been sure I'd come to heel in time, lay my freedom at your feet, come home to you. Admit that is true. We can neither of us get away."

"I did feel that. But, anyway, I must get rid of you now, I must think!"

They would part till tea time, he promised. He would get her home her room. He wanted to dine with her and with Peter tonight. He must make his peace with her brother.

"Afterwards, we'll dance. I've never danced with you Petrol."

"No, we haven't any tunes, any music. Only grim reality."

"We'll turn on the musical comedy stuff at last; behave like other men and girls who love each other. We'll picnic in the desert, drive beside the Nile, see the pyramids by moonlight. We'll telephone each other, write crazy notes. I shall give you foolish presents. We'll have quarrels, and reconciliations, and drink champagne, and invent our own toasts. Do you like the program?"

"Love it, old cynic."

He smiled at her. "I've watched so many other people making fools of themselves. And felt jealous as hell! Petronella, if this miracle doesn't turn round, and hit me a crack for not seeing heaven on earth, I shall never be cynical again."

She stood. "Till tea time! You can go out and see what is happening. Come back and tell me I've seen enough scrapping already, in Cairo. I hate the thwack a stick makes when it hits a hard head. Bugh!"

"Their habit of stone slinging is pretty vicious," he saw her shiver. He looked at her with commiseration, and doubt in his eyes. Petrol had not changed in essentials, he realized. She was not hardened. Petronella, looking up, understood his thought, and was afraid. She had meant to mislead him. She found it fatally easy to do honest. Tony was hard. If he suspected that she was the wrong wife for him, that she would be a handicap, he would make ruthless terms. He put his career first, love second. Perhaps he had not meant the things he had said just now? Perhaps she was anticipating marriage too confidently. Suppose he only wanted her love? Or suppose marriage to Tony meant slavery. Can you enforce loneliness? He might insist on traveling alone. He might leave her in a home which would be wretched without companionship.

Misgiving Versus Delight
 SHE could not stand that, Petronella decided. She had lived too actively with Peter to consent to such shelving. She did not enjoy trouble, but she preferred it to anxiety. If Tony was going to treat her as a sheltered, inexperienced woman, and leave her at home, she wanted to find out now, before it was too late. She would be thankful to be alone, and able to think sensibly. There were questions she must ask him; points upon which their agreement must be clear. The suddenness of this meeting had jarred her nerves. It was impossible to think when she was with him.

The mad abruptness of their agreement that they were in love, and henceforth belonged together, filled her with misgiving, as well as delight. It was so swift an arrangement that she could not believe it could be stable. Half an hour ago she had belonged to herself. She was Petronella Mallone. She did as her own conscience prompted; obeyed her own laws. Now, she stood face to face with the possibility of abandoning that will of marriage within a week, going with Tony Lane, who, in so many ways was unknown, a stranger. She was sure of one thing about him, and it frightened her. He would calmly expect to rule her.

"I'm strong willed, too; if I don't agree with him there will be a clash. I must know whether he is worth following. Suppose his personality is all right, but his ideas are crooked?" she wondered.

"Don't look so frightened, Petrol," he said gently.

"It is facing the readjustment. At first—"

"You're not afraid of that. You're afraid of me. You have developed a keen mind of your own, that looks for snags. You don't trust me. You will!" Their eyes met.

"That is what I was doing," she admitted. "I do hope you're right, Tony."

Why did you think you knew people, and loved them, when you knew nothing, and loved them, when you were strangers, wondered Petronella?

She was alone in her room. She felt crushed and bewildered. Fate had granted her her greatest wish. She was afraid to take it. Part of her mind said, "You're a coward."

A second part retorted, "You would be a fool if you did not think twice. Instinct is not enough."

She stood at the window. This room was high. She looked out on to the scorching streets, and at the dark ugliness of a mob, one of those lovable crowds, being moved slowly from the main thoroughfare, and divided into the narrow channels of small streets.

From another part of the town a lorry full of Egyptian soldiers, dressed in khaki, steel helmets, were driven, swaying, at speed, obviously in answer to some alarm.

She thought, "Even as he told me he loved me, they were firing." She supposed that was why she felt so little joy. Tony's life resembled Peter's. She knew so well what that meant. Standing by, watching history write itself in unhappy countries, cities under martial law; revolution, strikes, bitterness; human suffering. War!

ASHOKAN

Ashokan, Feb. 15—A large party gave a skimmington to the newbyeds, Mr. and Mrs. Donald DuBois, in their new house at DuBois Corner, Friday evening. Miss Marie Lyons and William Cohen entertained by dancing the "Big Apple" and the "Sis Q." ## Cheering for Cherries

It's easy to cheer for something you like. That goes without saying. And it's equally easy to like cherries and dishes made from this delicious fruit. At this season of the year cherries are particularly nice to serve for they add that cheerful note to otherwise drab and uninteresting menus. With modern distribution methods, cherries of many types and kinds are ready and waiting for the homemaker's selection. Fresh cherries—those large, thick-fleshed, sweet, red, jewel-like fruits—may be obtained in some markets. The next best bet is frozen cherries. Slightly sweetened, pitted and juicy, these may be thawed and served just as they come from the freezing package. Reputable brands are the homemaker's wisest choice.

Canned red and white cherries of the sweet varieties are preferred by many homemakers for desserts and pies and tarts. The old time homemaker will assure you in quite definite terms that the best cherry pie can only be made with sour cherries. And I agree. You can buy these in cans, all pitted and ready for the pie shell. Now we mustn't forget the cherry specialties—marshmallow cherries, candied cherries and cherry sauce or preserves. All belong in the same family and may wisely be used to brighten up February meals.

As you've probably surmised, I'm going to remind you of National Cherry Week to be observed this year from February 15 to February 22.

What a grand time for a cherry promotion! It's not a bad idea to stock up on canned cherries while they're on sale. Then you can "cheer for cherries" for many a meal.

CHERRY LOG
 Filling 2 cups sour pitted red cherries 2/3 cup granulated sugar 2 tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons corn starch.

Drain juice from cherries, add sugar; heat to boiling point. Add corn starch combined with enough cold water to make a thin paste. Stir mixture constantly; continue cooking until it has boiled for 5 minutes. Add butter and cherries and allow to cool.

Cake recipe: One 5-ounce bottle marshmallow cherries, 2 eggs, well beaten, 1 cup granulated sugar, 1 cup pastry flour, 1/2 teaspoon baking soda, 1 teaspoon cream of tartar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup hot milk and 1/2 teaspoon lemon extract.

Beat eggs until light yellow and creamy. Add sugar and mix well. Sift together dry ingredients; add to egg mixture and beat again. Add hot milk and flavoring. Pour into baking pan—bake in oven (350°F) until evenly browned. Remove from pan on wrapping paper, sprinkled with powdered sugar. Trim edges, spread with cherry filling and roll like jelly roll. The paper in place around roll.

Hints
 The interior of the coffee pot must be kept immaculately clean at all times. The flavor of the coffee will be impaired if a household cleanser regularly applied will remove all oil, film and stains. Wash, rinse and dry before using.

and allow to cool. When roll is cold and firm, remove paper and ice with favorite chocolate or vanilla frosting. Garnish with marshmallow cherries.

WASHINGTON PIE
 3 packets (3/4 pound) marshmallows, 3/4 cup boiling water, 1 2/3 cups canned cherries (with juice), 1/2 cup sugar, 1 layer white cake.

Place marshmallows and boiling water in top of double boiler and heat, stirring constantly until mixture is smooth and fluffy. Meanwhile combine the cherries (with juice) and sugar and heat for 15 minutes. Then remove cherries from syrup and fold into melted marshmallow mixture. Pour into a round cake pan and chill until firm.

Just before serving, place the cake, right side up, on a large round plate. Quickly dip the cherry-marshmallow mixture in a pan of hot water and unmold on a square of wax paper, moistened with lemon juice. (This prevents sticking.) Then invert over cake. Polka dot the cake with a few canned cherries and serve in wedge-shaped pieces. Serves 8.

Strong Walkers

IT WAS a bright, clear day. Lovely white snow covered the ground but the sun was warm and the baby penguins were taking a sun bath when the Puddle Muddlers arrived.

Now Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Penguin went off to meet Willy Nilly, eating the fish he gave them. But they were saving some for their babies.

The little penguins did not realize they were going to be fed. They thought their parents had forgotten to give them any breakfast, so they started to walk off after them.

The parents paid no attention to them, for, so it seemed, as a matter of fact they were really noticing what they were doing. On, on they walked while the little ones, Fluffy and Downy followed them. Sometimes they would get near enough to their parents to step on their tails but the parents would shake them off and be on their way again.

On and on this walk continued, while the Puddle Muddlers watched.

Sometimes Fluffy and Downy would bump into their parents who would dodge off in another direction.

Finally they stood so firmly on their parents' tails that Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Penguin had to stop. Then they put some fish into their eager bills.

The babies had had enough food and went back to sun themselves once more.

Mrs. Johnny Penguin turned to Willy Nilly and said: "The little didn't know that was one of their lessons. We were making strong walkers of them that way."

Tomorrow—"Penguin Playtime."

Garters for Bowled Legs

Chicago (AP)—Garters for bowlegged men are helping Harold Steffee of South Bend, Ind., pay his tuition at the University of Chicago. ## HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking stress, waste and poisons out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day of about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with aching and burning show there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Musical Society Presents Two-Piano Program Wednesday

One of the most highly appreciated arts in the field of music today is that of two-piano playing. An enjoyable demonstration of what can be accomplished in this field was given an extremely successful showing Wednesday evening at the Governor Clinton Hotel at the invitation of the Musical Society of Kingston.

The well-balanced program consisted of seven two-piano numbers with four and eight hands playing. The partners in the ensembles were well chosen, musically they were well matched and personal and temperamental congeniality led to proper coordination.

The lines of the melody could be easily traced in each piece as they passed from one piano to another and the accompaniments were subordinated to the melody. Visible signals for unity were used as little as possible.

The program was given in the Crystal Room of the hotel and beside the two pianos on a raised platform was placed the gold harp played by Miss Helen Sheldon.

Two concert artists, members of the society, were soloists, Miss Helen Sheldon, harpist, and Mrs. Florence W. Cumberley, violinist. Mrs. Cumberley was accompanied at the piano by Miss Helen Turner.

The complete program follows: Choral: ..... Bach Pastorale ..... Schumann Charlotte Bishop, Edna Rignall, Sonata ..... Handel Florence Cumberley, violin Helen Turner, piano

Polonaise ..... Beethoven Agatha Snyder, Catherine McCombs, Charlotte Bishop Elizabeth LeFever

La Dalcroze ..... Lysberg Ethel Mauterstock, Jane Mauterstock

Musette ..... Chopin Etudes ..... Chopin Gladys Millonig, Olga Dodge Waltz ..... Arensky Helen Turner, Ella Elling

Dance Orientale ..... Gady Follets ..... Hasselmanns Gitauna ..... Hasselmanns Helen Sheldon

Alt Wien ..... Godowsky Helen Trempier, Lella Decker Andante ..... Ziehmtemp La Precieuse ..... Couperin Florence Cumberley, violin; Helen Turner, accompanist

Butterfly Waltz ..... Friml Margaret Howe, Esther Wonderly, Lucinda Morris, Olive Graham

For many years the Musical Society has contributed to the music of the community by presenting an open program. Due to the limited seating capacity, admission has been by invitation only. This was the third year that such a program has been presented in the Governor Clinton Hotel, former programs having been held at the Antonio Knauth residence on Albany avenue.

The guests were welcomed by Mrs. Lloyd R. LeFever, president of the society, who said that while the group is composed of professionals and amateurs, they are all working together in the continuation of music study and appreciation and took pleasure in presenting a program for their friends.

At the close of the musical program refreshments were served in the lounge of the hotel. The refreshment table was attractively decorated with red hearts and a center piece of red roses and white candles.

Those pouring were Mrs. Mortimer E. Brown, Mrs. John L. MacKinnon, Mrs. Lloyd R. LeFever, Mrs. Henry F. Dunbar, Mrs. Bernard Forst, Mrs. Le Roy Wood and Mrs. Arthur Ellison.

Acting as ushers at the musical program were Miss Alberta Davis, Mrs. Edward Muller, Jr., Mrs. Fred Sherman and Mrs. Clarence Wolfenstein.

Their floral key, the new high crown on which they are massed, the sailor brim beneath and the sheer veil that wraps them up all are indicative of spring chapeau trends. Rose Valois of Paris put them all together to wear right now with a draped black jersey frock.

When making rolled cookies it is advisable to chill the dough (over night is not too long). The dough can be handled more easily and the cookies quickly cut out. Our grandmothers frequently rolled the dough on a large board and chilled it out of doors for several hours.

If your sheets do not carry index tabs showing the size, make up some of your own. Write size of sheet on tape with indelible ink and sew on one edge of sheet.

The sudden drop in temperature that followed the heavy rain here yesterday afternoon halted possible flood conditions in the Rondout creek and other streams of the area.

To aid in eliminating danger from flood the tug Hob of the Cornell line was placed at work Wednesday breaking up the heavy ice fields in the lower Rondout creek to allow the expected flood waters an opportunity to spread out into the Hudson river.

The river is still ice-locked on Kingston Point with no navigation attempted. Ferry service has been suspended for several

Farm Prospect Looks Brighter

MINNEAPOLIS. — Cash income per U. S. farm family, including government payments, averaged $1,094 for the year 1938, compared with $1,237 per family in 1937, and $1,140 per family in 1936, according to an analysis of rural buying power made by Northwestern National Life Insurance company.

In spite of low prices received for farm products in 1938, actual farm buying power was only 6.9 per cent less than in 1937, most prosperous agricultural year since 1929, the study shows. Larger crops were marketed in 1938, partially offsetting the decline in prices; government benefits increased $19 per family, and costs of things the farmer buys dropped 5 per cent from 1937 to 1938.

tion's $552,000,000 defense program. Interwoven with this is the controversy over foreign policy, with some senators demanding full publicity on sales of war equipment to foreign nations.

A half dozen other congressional problems are being left behind by the president, and Democratic leaders, looking for a long session unless a greater degree of party harmony is shown, are expected to work toward solution of some of these during his absence.

Mr. Roosevelt, during his period of relaxation on the sunny deck of the Houston, will have a chance to ponder contentions by some Democrats that further cooperation should be shown between the White House and party members in congress. Other problems he is leaving with congress are:

City Coal Dealer Protests 'Racket'

The sale of "bootleg" coal in this area was vigorously protested today by a local coal dealer who declined to give his name for publication, but who declared that the practice, which has been called a "racket" is a serious infringement on the local coal business.

In support of his statement, the local merchant called attention to recent facts given by George H. Jones, superintendent of the Stevens Coal Company at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., who said that 5,000,000 tons of stolen coal are being bootlegged in Pennsylvania yearly.

Brighter Picture.

Thus the real picture of the farm family's buying power is much brighter than that drawn by the ratio of prices received to prices paid, the analysis shows. While farm produce prices were at 92 per cent of 1936-14 buying power "parity" in 1938, and 83 per cent of parity in 1937, they were only 77 per cent of parity in 1938. Yet the average farm family's actual purchasing power was only 6.9 per cent below 1937, and was within 4 per cent of 1936, due to the bigger production sold. As a matter of fact, the comparative price ratio stood at 86 per cent of parity in 1935, when the average total cash income per farm family was only $1,018, and prices paid by the farmer were slightly higher than in 1938, giving a considerably lower actual purchasing power than with agricultural prices at 77 per cent of parity in 1938.

The average family also took $179 worth of produce off its farm for its own use in 1938, which, added to the cash income, gives a gross income of $1,273 per family. This compares with corresponding gross income figures of $1,439 in 1937 and $1,337 in 1936.

Government benefit payments climbed to an average of $71.72 per farm family in 1938, compared with $52.79 in 1937 and $41.18 in 1936. The 1938 payments thus approach the payments made in the disaster years of 1934 and 1935. In 1934 the average farm family received $79.87 from Uncle Sam, and in 1935, $83.87.

Cotton, fruit and vegetable farmers fared worst in 1938, comparing cash receipts from these crops with returns in preceding years; in fact total cash crop values on cotton, fruit, and vegetables were approximately at the 1935 levels.

Labor Rates Higher.

Tobacco and dairy farmers fared best, with the cash value of these classes of produce running little behind 1937 totals.

The study estimates 6,972,000 families living on farms in 1938, based on U. S. department of agriculture total farm population figures.

With farm income figures down, 1938 labor rates were considerably higher than in 1936, though a little less than in 1937. Average monthly wages paid farm labor, with board, were $23.49 in 1938, compared with $24.09 per month in 1937 and $21.54 per month in 1936.

Another major farm expense, interest on borrowed money, has stood practically stationary for three years. Borrowers' rates at 12 federal land banks have remained fixed at 4 per cent since 1936, and in general, interest rates paid by farm borrowers to various lending institutions have shown similar stability.

Science Seeking Way to Prepare Smoked Poultry

ORONO, MAINE. — Science is delving into a new problem—methods of preparing smoked poultry. This new delicacy is on the research tables in the department of bacteriology and biochemistry at the University of Maine.

Professor E. R. Hitchner, head of the department, said the investigation is concerned with the technique of curing or "pickling" chicken followed by a special smoking process.

The poultry department is co-operating by furnishing chickens for the experiments.

Professor Hitchner said there was little possibility the new product would become a large-scale enterprise in Maine or elsewhere because of the care necessary in its preparation.

Jitterbugs Pay for Practicing the Art

BOSTON. — Jitterbugs who dance the shag, Saxy Q and other modern steps are in danger of getting "athlete's foot," an investigating committee reported to the National Association of Chiropractors.

"These dances invite friction because of their activity and may create reddened or blistered feet," the committee said. "These irritated parts make fertile areas for infection by the little parasite or fungus that destroys skin and tissue. This is the so-called 'athlete's foot.'"

A man and his wife were hunting flies:

She—How many have you caught?

He—Six. Three males and three females.

She—That's absurd. How could you tell which is which?

He—I caught three on the sugar and three on the mirror.

Kingston Ahead In Auto Safety

New York, Feb. 16 (Special)—Kingston's record of traffic safety last year was better than that of most cities of its size in the country, according to an analysis just completed by the National Safety Council, covering 467 cities over 10,000 population.

Kingston had three traffic fatalities in 1933, a reduction from the five in 1932. The city's rate was 10.6 per 100,000 population while that of the other cities of similar size, 25,000 to 50,000, averaged 13.4. The figures for the nation averaged 14.5 per 100,000, and for New York, 18.9. That the safety campaign waged by the council, by the nation's newspapers and by the other agencies is finally bearing fruit is proved by the fact that 7,613 fewer lives were lost in traffic in 1933. The improvement was the greatest ever recorded. Nor was the decline due to less traffic, for motor vehicle mileage was as great as in 1932.

Wicks 'Transit' Bill Introduced

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 16 (AP)—A proposal designed to guarantee jobs of employees on municipally-owned transit lines, despite a new constitutional amendment requiring that they be qualified under civil service, was introduced in the Legislature today.

The protection was estimated by the sponsor, Republican Senator Arthur H. Wicks, Kingston, to affect approximately 60,000 in New York city.

The legislation is designed as an amendment to the bill previously introduced by Wicks to effectuate the recent constitutional revision, and would automatically "freeze" into civil service transit employees who have been employed one year and who are United States citizens "of good character."

Sears Reopens Renovated Car-Service Department

The work of rebuilding and improving the Sears Roebuck service station, under way for some weeks past, is nearly completed and announcement is made that the station will again be put into use this week.

Improvements include the installation of double entrance doors, doubling of the garage space to accommodate four cars, a new concrete floor and new charging equipment.

Side walls have been rebuilt and made several feet higher, so as to give more room overhead and the building has been strengthened by the use of steel girders.

The station accommodates the Sears tire, battery and oil service business and in addition gives room for considerable storage.

Cloak Was Titian That dress maketh the man was noted long ago. Titian, the famed Italian painter of the sixteenth century, walked home in his working clothes unnoted, but returning immediately to the street again, in his court costume of purple velvet, every person he met bowed and did him homage. Disgusted, Titian, back in his studio, threw the cloak on the floor, exclaiming, "Thou, then, art 'titan; so much for drapery!"

Machine Age in Theater Sacrificed to the machine age was the theater's traditional call boy in Philadelphia when an intercommunicator appeared backstage in one of the theaters, controlling remote speaker units in distant dressing rooms. Made to click with greater precision, certainly, was the entire production by this elimination of fast but fallible footwork and of old-fashioned knock-on-the-door curtain cues.—Radio Retailing.

Use for the Wild Grape The wild grape is a hardy plant and often is used for landscaping where it is allowed to ramble over trellises and arbors. The highly flavored, acid fruit makes excellent jelly and jam and sometimes is used for making wine. Small boys in rural areas learn to smoke by taking their first puffs from a piece of wild grapevine. Children use the vines for swings and for practice on trapeze performing.

Novelist Learned English By Heavy Hand of Father For years, on Sunday night, we sat around the fire and read. My father sat in his armchair on the right. My mother sat facing him in a low rocking chair. Between them was a long wooden backless bench on which we all sat: my sisters, my brother, and I.

It was cozy enough in the kitchen then. There was a lamp hanging to a nail in the wall; a tin lamp, a glass chimney with no shade, a reflector of polished tin. We read "The Pilgrim's Progress" and "Robinson Crusoe," and many another good book, because my father abhorred rubbish. He would read a little; then, once by one, the children would take their turns. If we mispronounced a word once, he would correct us irritably; if twice, he would clout us across the head. So we became acquainted with wholesome English.—Howard Spring in Atlantic Monthly.

Children's Eyes Change Color as They Grow Older Usually the eyes of white children do not become fully colored until several months after birth. The iris, the colored diaphragm of the eye, appears a slate-blue at birth because of the dark pigment at the back of the eye which shows through, according to the Better Vision Institute. White, yellow or reddish brown pigment is deposited in the iris, which, against the dark pigment, gives rise gradually to gray, hazel or brown eyes. In blue-eyed persons very little pigment is deposited in the iris, while in albinos there is very little dark pigment at the back of the iris, the blood vessels imparting a pink coloration.

Collector Gives Advice On How to Talk Antiques

In promoting sprightly conversation about fishing, horses, music, art, relief or aviation, familiarity with the subject is advantageous. In social symposium about antiques ignorance is a negligible detriment. One can put up a creditable front with a modicum of easily acquired patter. Such technical tidbits as "patina," "lustre," "hallmark," "sunburst," "salt glaze" and "Americana" are useful as evincing interest and intelligence (whether you possess them or not), but are not necessary as starters.

Upon finding yourself surrounded in an antique household without means of escape, any one of the following leads will prove efficacious. "Have you been to any auctions lately?"

"Is that portrait your great-grandfather's?"

"Isn't it appalling, the fakes that are being put out now!" After that you may confidently withdraw into the silence, emerging only for an occasional, well-placed murmur of appreciation. The antiquer will do the rest. There is, in a world resonant with chatter, no more prolific, determined and self-sustaining conversationalist than your collector of the residue of the past.—Samuel Hopkins Adams in Coronet.

Machine Introduces New Twist to Nut Cracking

DAVIS, CALIF.—The University of California college of agriculture has a new twist on nut cracking. No longer need nuts be cracked by crushing. They can now be cracked, at the rate of 800 pounds of whole walnuts an hour, by exploding them, according to Science Service.

The machine to do this job, known as the internal combustion nut cracker, has been developed and patented by the university's agricultural college.

It was developed at the request of the state's walnut industry, which has until now used crushers and hand labor, which are expensive and wasteful, to separate hull from meat.

The nuts are fed in the new machine between two rubber-faced belts past a circular saw which cuts a slot in the shell. They are then conveyed over gas jets contained in a guide rib which fits into the aperture cut in the shell and the space between the nut meat and the shell is filled with an explosive mixture.

At the end of the conveyor line, the nuts drop through a circular burner which ignites the gas and blows the shell away from the kernels. The nut meats drop vertically into one container, while a larger one surrounding it catches the pieces of shell.

The nut meats are 60 per cent, whole or in halves, with few small pieces in the remaining 40 per cent.

Bandits Take $27,000 in Haul

Norwalk, Conn., Feb. 16 (AP)—Four bandits, all armed and wearing dark glasses, held up two bank messengers and their police guard today and escaped in an automobile with $27,000 in payroll funds.

Witnesses said that the men got out of a large black sedan as the messengers reached a point about 30 yards from the postoffice where they had just picked up two pouches containing mail and the registered package of currency.

Says He Met Hines

New York, Feb. 16 (AP)—Magistrate Hulton Capshaw acknowledged today at the retrial of James J. Hines on lottery-conspiracy charges that he met Hines and J. Richard (Dixie) Davis at a night club during a time when Davis was acting as legal advisor to the $30,000,000-a-year Dutch Schultz policy racket. The witness—under suspension since District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey named him with two other city officials as having been "intimidated, influenced or bribed" by Hines—also agreed on cross-examination that some of Davis' policy arrests cases were before him in court when he met the Schultz gang's lawyer.

"Industrial paints" are those coatings designed for use in the multi-various products of industry. The range is very wide—from automobile to agricultural machinery and implements—and in each case the paint is designed for its specific purpose, usually under specification of test requirements.

How to Win a Maiden

In the Cumberland mountains, according to tradition, a youth, to win a maiden of his desire must follow the unusual procedure of counting her steps up to nine, take some earth from the track made by her left shoe-heel at her ninth step, carry this earth in his pocket for ten days—and she is his.

Negroes to Give Special Program

In accordance with the custom of the Empire State Federation of Women's Clubs, the Kingston branch, known as the M. C. Lawton Progressive Club, will celebrate National Negro History Week on February 17, at the Franklin Street A. M. E. Zion Church, with a dinner and a program to follow.

The purpose of the celebration is to acquaint the people of America—whites as well as negroes—with the importance of the negro in the community and of the rapid progress the race has made since the emancipation proclamation. The idea of history week itself was inaugurated by such famous negroes as the late James Weldon Johnson, J. Rosamond Johnson and their contemporaries, and was enthusiastically received by such negro organizations as the N. A. A. C. P., the Urban League and the National Federation of Women's Clubs.

For their program Friday evening, the Lawton Progressive Club has been fortunate in securing the services of Mrs. Hollis Leak, who was formerly Miss Elizabeth Wilkes of this city. Mrs. Leak, having been a teacher in the public schools of Goldsboro, N. C., and Washington, D. C., is well versed in Negro history and a most interesting speaker. Following is the program.

"Behold a Mighty Army," Opening Club Song.
Invocation, Mrs. Minnie V. Walker, State Chaplain.
Negro National Anthem, "Lift Every Voice and Sing," by J. Rosamond and James Weldon Johnson.

Selected Reading, Mrs. Sara Snyder.
Vocal Solo, Miss Blanche Proctor.
Selected Reading from works of Paul Lawrence Dunbar, Mrs. M. V. Walker.
Piano Selection, Bells of Macon, Rachmaninoff.

Miss Jeanette Ray
Presentation of Mrs. Leak by the club president, Mrs. Army Van Der Zee.

Selected Solo, Mrs. Edna Point of Newburgh.
Remarks, Mrs. Marion Brown, president Hudson River Region.
Selected Solo, Mrs. Mary Miller of Newburgh.
Remarks, the Rev. C. F. A. Kirtan.
Closing Song, Progressive Club.

Given Suspended Sentence

Earl Lane of Lanesville, who was overpowered by Trooper Ray Dunn Sunday night while Lane was armed with a shotgun, and was held on a charge of assault in the third degree, was sentenced to one year in the Greene county jail when arraigned before Justice Edmund Becker of Hunter Wednesday night. On appeal of Lane's wife the justice suspended execution of the sentence. It was alleged that Lane had been tormenting his crippled wife, pulling her hair and slapping her face. A young son called Trooper Dunn and the latter went to the Lane home, where he found Lane brandishing a shotgun, which later was found to be not loaded.

Kiwanians Give Prodigious Welcome

At the meeting of Kiwanis at noon today at the Governor Clinton Hotel Ray Garraghan and Robert Herzog, two of the club's "travelers" were welcomed back from the south.

President Ed Huben introduced Roy M. Hart, Brooklyn Kiwanian, and announced that at the meeting next week he would call on the chairman of the several committees for reports.

Roger H. Loughran, chairman of the entertainment committee for the month, presented Lester F. Glenck of the Albany office of the Dictaphone Co., who showed a sound motion picture, "Sales Approach," a picture which created much interest at the Business Show.

Chinook Is Name Applied To Various Winds in West

"Chinook" is the popular name of various winds common in the northwestern part of the United States and in British Columbia. It was originally applied by the early traders at Astoria, Ore., to a warm southwest wind blowing from the direction of the Chinook Indian villages on the Columbia river. Under the influence of a chinook wind the snow is melted quickly and the weather becomes balmy and spring-like. The name is also applied specifically to a warm wind in winter on the lee side of a mountain. Such chinook winds are common in the Sierras and the Rockies. They are produced as follows: Humid air rising on the windward side of a high mountain cools slowly with ascent, owing to the heat freed by condensation of the water vapor into clouds and rain. This same air descending on the lee side is relatively dry and warms rapidly by compression with descent. Hence, level for level, the air is warmer on the lee than on the windward side. The difference in temperature between the opposite valleys of a high mountain may be 10 to 20 degrees, or even more. In Europe, especially in the Alps, "foehn" is the name applied to winds of this type. Glarus, Switzerland, was almost completely destroyed in 1861 by fire fanned by a foehn rushing down from the mountains. A law now requires every fire in the town to be extinguished as soon as a foehn begins.

McIntyre Is Ill

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)—Marvin H. McIntyre, secretary to President Roosevelt, was taken ill with intestinal influenza today and doctors ordered him to the Naval Hospital for treatment. One of many federal officials including the President who have been hit by grip of flu, McIntyre's condition was described at the White House as quite serious. He will be unable to leave the south and in his place will be William D. Hassett, assistant to Stephen Early, another presidential secretary. Early will remain in Washington to attend to White House business.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Feb. 16 (AP)—

Strength in metals and aircrafts gave the stock market a general lift today, leaders gaining fractions to around 3 points.

Volume was the best in about 10 days, with transfers at the rate of approximately 1,000,000 shares. The pace was fastest in the forenoon, slackening appreciably after mid-day. Near the final hour a little profit-taking shaded top quotations a trifle.

While some traders continued to hug neutral territory on the theory a new foreign crisis is still a possibility, the general favorable quota of domestic business news tended to offset worries over European happenings as a market factor.

Overseas securities markets were a shade better. Bonds were selectively higher and commodities narrow.

Prominent stocks on the upside were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, Sperry, Glenn Martin, United Aircraft, General Motors, Chrysler, Ex-Cell-O Corp., U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, American Telephone, North American, Westinghouse du Pont and Santa Fe.

In the curb modest improvement was registered for Electric Bond & Share, Lockheed, American Gas and Pantepec Oil.

Quotations by Morgan Davis & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, 15 Broad street, New York city, branch office 43 Main street, R. B. Osterhout, manager.

Market Firmer At Close of Day

The market again showed a firmer tendency in the final hour of trading yesterday and averages showed a slight gain for the day. Trading continued at the low volume which has marked the Exchange transactions for some time past, total being 500,000 shares. Industrials were ahead for the day 0.47 point, to 144.60 in the Dow-Jones averages; rails advanced 0.04 point, to 29.93 and utilities were ahead 0.05 point, to 24.85. Bonds were fractionally higher.

Commodities were mixed, the index showing a slight loss. Wheat at Chicago was unchanged to 1/4 cent lower. Cotton closed two to nine points lower under heavy foreign selling. Silk and rubber were relatively firm.

On the London market a general uptrend was shown with recent declining tendencies in both rails and industrials reversed. Paris closed steady in inactive trading.

Rural retail sales of general merchandise in January, according to Department of Commerce reports, were the highest on record for that month. Variety stores for the month were said to be 2 1/2 per cent above the 1938 period and the highest for any January since 1929. Department store sales for the month, according to Federal Reserve figures, did not make as good a showing, being under 1938 by two per cent, taking the country as a whole.

Figures given out by the Federal Housing Administration yesterday showed receipt of $21,700,000 of home mortgage insurance applications for the week ended February 11. The present volume of applications is said to be 145 per cent above the rate at this period in 1938 and moving rapidly toward the high level of last summer. Building material sales are reported to have expanded substantially since the first of the year, with price situation favorable.

The rapid expansion taking place in the airplane manufacturing field was emphasized by a number of developments yesterday. Lockheed Aircraft Corp. is planning to ask SEC approval for issuance of 112,454 shares of common stock to provide capital for expansion. Several major manufacturers are preparing for increased operations to handle French government orders totaling approximately $60,000,000. Meanwhile the House passed the bill authorizing a total of 5,500 planes for the Army Air Corps.

The Erie Railroad reported net loss for 1938 of $10,777,794. In 1937 loss was $433,233.

Net of National Biscuit for 1938 was equal to $1.64 a common share, not $1.70 as previously reported. Compares with $1.61 a share in 1937. Union Oil of California had net of $6,862,758, or $1.47 a share in 1938 vs. net of $12,061,332, or $2.58 a share in 1937. Quaker State Oil's net of $527,610, or 57 cents a share compares with net of $1,029,250, or $1.11 a share in 1937. ## Coed Matching Men in Classes on Engineering

CLEVELAND.—Twenty years old and determined, pretty Virginia Francis is working toward a degree in chemical engineering.

Virginia, a freshman, is the only girl student in Fenn college's engineering division. Although she works as a cost accountant in the daytime and attends school at night, she often makes higher grades than her male classmates.

In addition to a combined college-business career, she is the college newspaper's advertising manager, the basketball team's mascot, and she swims and plays tennis.

"I look upon this course not only as a means to a more interesting life and a better livelihood later on, but also as a test of my own intelligence," energetic Miss Francis said. "Of course, I contemplate matrimony and if the right man comes along I will marry him."

"But I would want to continue with engineering," she added.

Once Held Silk-Making Secret

Although silkworms are cultivated in many parts of the world in order to obtain the lovely product which they make, at one time the secret of producing this cloth was known only in China, where it was jealously guarded. Raising silkworms was a great industry in China as long ago as 2,600 years before the Christian era. Try as they might, other nations were unable to learn the secret of making the fine cloth. But, according to the story, a faithless Chinese princess finally betrayed her country by carrying to India some of the eggs of the silkworm tree upon which it fed on mulberry leaves. From India the secret gradually spread to the West, although it did not reach Europe until the sixteenth century.

Colonials Trim Barons 46-30; Middies Play K.H.S. on Friday

Frankel Scores 18 And Kaplan 11 for Kingston Quintet

22nd Victory

Joe Dubbler fails to hit his stride, makes six markers—Colonials lead from the start

Last night the Colonials took victory No. 22 in the American Basketball League as they outshot the Wilkes-Barre Barons, 46-30, in an encounter which lacked the dash and spirit of last week's tilt with the Brooklyn Violets, but which held attention of the fans in that they saw their favorites put a better grip on the league lead. It was Nat Frankel's return to form at the auditorium, who accounted in large measure for the victory, and Sammy Kaplan's assistance. Frankel made 18 points, and Kaplan 11. Pete Berne, the dashing demon of the tussle, made only one field goal. Dubbler, ex-Colonial, failed in his stride for the Barons, and turned in only six points, two less than Lee, who the honors for the visitors' eight markers. Lee made four fouls to help his total, and collected four of his six points from the free throw line. None of the Barons were able to score more than twice the field.

The first period started in slug-fash and was marked by fouls. Kingston made of its 12 points in the first frame from the baby and the Barons collected of their 10 on free throws. Kingston spurred further into the lead as Frankel sank two shots and two long shots in the second period to spark the team to a 17-point lead. Sammy Kaplan's six points, and the momentum. Two and a half by Lee and Shuchmann's two pointers the Barons to roll up their

In the closing session, that both the Colonials leading Frankel continued his of fields, adding three, and Kramer, who went in for duty, pushed in a couple of Bernie Fliegel tossed in one and then was forced at the end of the frame as injured trying to score a point. Fliegel crashed into the basket and suffered a injury that required the attention of a physician.

For four fouls, two each for Miller and Bender, the referee scored in the closing minutes until the waning minutes when Moe tossed in a deuce, and Paris came through with a deuce and Cas Krajewski caged for two pointers.

At the final minutes ticked off the timer's clock, the Barons' long shots, but the local boys' possession in the series of fouls for the ball that dulled the professional lustre, nevertheless, seemed to the spectators.

Forst Packers Win Over J.Y.A. On Field Shot by Terpening As Whistle Ends Game, 22-21

Forst Packers took victory right out of the hands of the J. Y. A. basketballers last night when a long shot by Terpening, in mid-air as the final whistle blew, gave the final decision to the Butchers 22-21 in another sensational City League preliminary at the auditorium.

Forst's trailed up to the last period when a spurt of scoring by Terpening and Meneel tied the game up at 17 all. Uhl put the Packers in the lead 19-17, but Eddie Behl countered with a deuce to tie the game up again. With less than a minute to play, Buddy Kline nearly became the hero of the game when he layed out a pretty shot to bring the J. Y. A. into the lead 21-20. However, Terpening turned the tables when he shot the winning deuce as the final whistle blew to win for Forst 22-21.

Terpening was high man for the winners with 9 points. Kropfel and Behl led the J. Y. A. with 8 and 7 respectively.

Oneonta Normal To Play New Paltz

Oneonta Normal, one of the great Normal triumvirate, will display its basketball wares at New Paltz on Friday, February 17, at 8:45 o'clock in the Normal gymnasium. A preliminary game will be played at 7:30 o'clock between the Delphi fraternity and the Delphi Alumni, a team which will feature such N. P. N. stars as Charlie Neff, Cliff Van Valkenburg, Ed Brannen, Fred Crier, Cy Kennedy, Lee Schmidt, and Jimmy Terwilliger.

The Orange and Blue quintet awaits the arrival of this rival teaming institution with even more anxiety than the entire New Paltz rooting section. This feeling has been aroused by the hard, close, victory eked out by Oneonta when the New Paltz squad visited them a few weeks back.

The New Paltz quintet has just returned from a road trip to Cobleskill and Plattsburg, where they battled with the Agricultural and Normal schools in that order. A good week's rest coupled with a few stiff workouts, the Normal squad will be "faring to go" with the possible exception of Eddie Kusso who suffered an arm injury while on the road.

Due to the Knights of Columbus charity ball at the municipal auditorium, the game will be played at the Myron J. Michael School.

Woman's Memory To Be Chief Aid

Miami Beach Detective Says Mrs. Marco Will Be Asked to Recall Suspicious Faces

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 16 (AP)—Detective Chief Earl Carpenter said today solution of the daring raid on Hotel Blackstone strong-boxes for an approximate $125,000 may depend on the memory of wealthy Mrs. Antonina Marco, New York widow.
Carpenter said Mrs. Marco, principal victim, had been asked to recall any names or faces of persons who might have seemed unduly attracted by the jewelry she wore in public places.
Mrs. Marco reported loss of some $75,000 in cash and jewelry. Five unmasked bandits trussed up five guests and five employees of the hotel at 4 a. m. yesterday, then methodically chiselled into 16 selected boxes.
Tape used to bind the 10, and a glove the bandits used to keep fingerprints off the boxes, were the only tangible clues.
As insurance appraisers continued a careful check of the loot, police revised downward an unofficial estimate of last night that the loss would be $200,000.

River Reports Its Own Height Over Telephone

HARTFORD, CONN.—OF Man River's got a telephone and only the weatherman knows the number.
A new apparatus, installed in a cabin on the bridge spanning Connecticut river, tells the weatherman the exact height of the water at any time.
The weatherman simply dials a secret number, waits until he hears a "ding-dong," which announces the connection has been completed, and then listens for buzzer signals which come at variable intervals.
Stop-watch in hand, the observer times the intervals. If the intervals are 10 seconds apart, the river is 10 feet high. Simple as that.
Heretofore, the weatherman has had to risk a wetting in a rowboat to get to the gauge for a reading at unusually high water.

Deer on 'Relief' in New York Feed on Health Cake

ALBANY.—"Let them eat cake" is no idle phrase, but a song of salvation to New York's deer. For the state conservation department is feeding "cakes" to deer.
With mountain snows too deep for deer to forage, the department took over the job of providing dinners for hungry bucks and fawns until spring.
The "cakes" constitute the last word in diet needs, though none too palatable. All the necessary vitamins and proteins are supplied in ground soybeans and molasses pressed into sticky balls.
Game protectors and rangers then pack the 25-pound cakes deep in the forests and hang them from trees for the deer to lick and chew.

Tells Horrors Of Chinese War

Major Chin, American Born, Relates Confusion At Fall of Canton.

HONGKONG.—There are things about this war that must be termed fantastic.
You can meet and talk to war refugees, and when you see a ragged Chinese peasant who has carried his wounded wife for miles to find sanctuary, you stare at first and then fight the desire to run away from it.
And you can meet some one like Maj. George B. Chin, of Boston, who is also a refugee, in a sense, and talking to him, you find yourself staring at him.
Here you have a young man who was born in San Jose, Calif., who played on the streets of Boston, and who still has his home there.
He talks about the fall of Canton, and his voice is quick, impatient, with bits of American slang.
Uses American Slang.
"It was one for the books. Here I was with 500 men, ordered into third-line position, and finding myself in front-line position instead. That shows how fast the Japanese came through. I had my men on both sides of the highway, in rough, hilly country. No equipment to speak of, but we did have a couple of anti-tank guns and a lot of hand grenades.
"The Japanese showed up with five tanks. We let go at them with the anti-tank guns and got two of the tanks. Then the Japanese came back with 15 tanks and about 30 airplanes. They bombed us, and how. All I could see for a time was men bouncing into the air as the bombs hit all around us. There was nothing we could do against that. I got back to Canton with about 275 of my men.
"In Canton it was all confusion, with troops moving out. Things were all washed up. There was nothing to do but get out. I made it."

In Dirty Prison.
Without realizing it, he gives you a perfect word picture of that strange and awful imprisonment. How they were unable to identify themselves, as a group of fleeing Chinese officers, and how they were arrested by the troops of another district on suspicion of being spies.
"It was a wet, dirty hole of a place where you wouldn't keep a dog. (He is an educated Chinese-American.) They chained us to a wall. I got loose and managed to get my comrades loose. Then we heard some one coming and we had to run. There was just one old man left."

"What happened to the old man?" you ask.
"I told him, 'Here, perhaps they won't kill you because you're an old man.' And I managed to find a piece of iron that he could use in getting himself free. Then we had to run for it."

You start to say, "sort of tough on the old man, wasn't it?" but he doesn't give you a chance. He talks on, as youth, and it is so apparent that he sees old age as being close to death anyway, so what difference does it make.
And it is, after all, war in China.

Ruins in France Yield Vases of Fifth Century

NANCY, FRANCE.—Fifteen glass vases dating from the Fifth century were discovered in the village of Haut-de-Tombeaux on the banks of the Moselle when a cemetery of 72 tombs dating from the Middle ages was excavated.
Modern spectrographic analysis at the Paris Optical Institute established the age of the vases, which were made in the region, but from materials which could only have come from the Far East and probably peddled by wandering nomad traders of that period.
Systematic excavations have been started to find further medieval objects.

Australia Laments Lack of 'Housemaid's Knee'

MELBOURNE, AUSTRALIA.—What has been described by the Country Women's association of Victoria as the "national tragedy of Australia" is the lack of "housemaid's knee."
The lack of housemaid's knee, they have pointed out is due to almost the acute shortage of housemaids. They have launched a scheme for group nomination of migrants from Great Britain who will work in country homes.

Blast It, You Know, It Isn't Being Done

LONDON.—Forty-five unemployed persons, including three women, marched into the grill room of the fashionable Ritz hotel in Piccadilly, sat down and demanded that they be served tea. All the men politely removed their caps.
The staff of the hotel was in consternation. The management conferred and refused to serve the demonstrators, who offered to pay for the tea.
The grill room was closed and police called in. Before police persuaded the demonstrators to depart, their leaders made speeches demanding winter relief.

Dog Licenses Necessary

A warning has been issued that all owners of dogs in the town of Ulster who have failed to procure their dog license may lose their dog. The dog warden has a right to take any unlicensed dog and all who wish to protect their dog should procure a license from the town clerk, David Kieffer, Lake Katrine.

Two Men Are Killed, 9 Injured In Mississippi Train Wreck

Quincy, Miss., Feb. 16 (AP)—Two men were killed and nine were injured, one probably fatally, early today in a head-on collision between a fast Frisco passenger train and a freight train one mile west of here.
The dead: George W. Bowers, about 60 years old, of Birmingham, engineer of the Sunnysland, the passenger train; and Laddie Ivy, porter on the train.
R. L. Dunne, Cordova, Ala., who W. O. Willis, editor of the Amory (Miss.) News said was riding behind the freight engine, was so badly scalded he was not expected to recover.
Willis said the collision occurred on a sharp curve when the
